Introduction

Where Opportunity Meets Talent

The TTI Success Insights® Talent Insights Report was designed to increase the understanding of an individual's talents. The report provides insight into three distinct areas: behaviors, motivators, and their integration. Understanding strengths and weaknesses in these areas will lead to personal and professional development and a higher level of satisfaction.

The following is an in-depth look at your personal talents in the three main sections:

Behaviors

This section of the report is designed to help you attain a greater knowledge of yourself as well as others. The ability to interact effectively with people may be the difference between success and failure in your work and personal life. Effective interaction starts with an accurate perception of oneself.

Motivators

This section of the report provides information on the why of your actions, which with application and coaching, can tremendously impact your valuing of life. Once you know the motivations that drive your actions, you will immediately be able to understand the causes of conflict.

Integrating Behaviors and Motivators

This section of the report will help you blend the how and the why of your actions. Once you can understand how your behaviors and motivators blend together, your performance will be enhanced and you will experience an increase in satisfaction.

Introduction

Behaviors

Behavioral research suggests that the most effective people are those who understand their strengths and weaknesses, because they can best develop strategies to meet the demands of their environment.

A person's behavior is a necessary and integral part of who they are. In other words, much of our behavior comes from "nature" (inherent), and much comes from "nurture" (our upbringing). It is the universal language of "how we act," or our observable human behavior.

In this report we are measuring four dimensions of normal behavior. They are:

- How you respond to problems and challenges.
- How you influence others to your point of view.
- How you respond to the pace of the environment.
- How you respond to rules and procedures set by others.

This report analyzes behavioral style; that is, a person's manner of doing things. Is the report 100% true? Yes, no, and maybe. We are only measuring behavior. We only report statements which are true and areas of behavior in which tendencies are shown. Feel free to delete any statement from the report that may not apply, but only after checking with friends or colleagues to see if they agree.

All people exhibit all four behavioral factors to varying degrees of intensity.
–W.M. Marston

Behavioral Characteristics

Based on Aldrin's responses, the report has selected general statements to provide a broad understanding of his work style. These statements identify the basic natural behavior that he brings to the job. That is, if left on his own, these statements identify HOW HE WOULD CHOOSE TO DO THE JOB. Use the general characteristics to gain a better understanding of Aldrin's natural behavior.

Aldrin dislikes volunteering his opinion until he has collected sufficient information to warrant an opinion. He can be motivated through teamwork. He likes to know he is a valued team member. He needs time for some study and analysis, particularly when doing new or challenging assignments. This allows him to adjust to the changing environment. He is good at concentrating in order to listen and learn. He is not easily distracted by peripheral activity. At times, Aldrin would like to slow the world down and cut out some of the activities people want him involved in. He wins through hard work and persistence. He likes to focus on one task until it is completed. Once Aldrin has come to a decision, others may find it difficult to change his mind. If changes are inevitable, and he sees enough benefits, they will be made. He can be friendly with others in many situations, but primarily with groups of established friends and associates. He is sociable and enjoys the uniqueness of each human being. Aldrin doesn't resist change as much as he resists being changed. He needs to be an active participant in situations that will impact his work. He likes to start and finish activities. Others who work with him know they can depend on him.

Aldrin may be reluctant to initiate new approaches to doing things. If he is shown the benefits, he will consider new procedures. Logic is important when trying to influence him. He pays more attention to logic than emotional "hype." Once he has arrived at a decision, he can be tough-minded and unbending. He has made his decision after gathering much data, and he probably won't want to repeat the process. He may want to think over major decisions before acting. He must be convinced that actions will produce the desired result. Aldrin prefers to take time to analyze situations that can be felt, touched, seen, heard, personally observed, or experienced. He may tend to fight for his beliefs or those things he feels passionate about. Making plans and following those plans is important to him. He adheres to company policy and doesn't break the rules just for the sake of breaking them.

Aldrin usually is considerate, compassionate and accepting of others; however, on some occasions he can become stubborn. Stubbornness surfaces when his ideals and beliefs are confronted. Sometimes he will withdraw from a verbal battle. If he feels strongly about an issue, he may retreat to gather his resources and then return to take a stand! He likes to know what is expected of him in a working relationship and to have the duties and responsibilities of others who will be involved explained. Communication is accomplished best by well-defined avenues. He can be outgoing at times. Basically introverted, he will "engage" in social conversation when the occasion warrants. Rarely does he display his emotions; that is, he projects a good poker face. Others may get the feeling that he is unfriendly, when in reality he is not. He may guard some information unless he is asked specific questions. He will not willingly share unless he is comfortable with the knowledge he possesses about the topic. He likes having others initiate the conversation. He can then assess the situation and respond accordingly. He tends to be possessive of information; that is, he doesn't voluntarily share information with others outside of his team. This may be a blessing, or a curse, to his superiors.

Value to the Organization

This section of the report identifies the specific talents and behavior Aldrin brings to the job. By looking at these statements, one can identify his role in the organization. The organization can then develop a system to capitalize on his particular value, making him an integral part of the team.

1. Dependable team player.
2. Service-oriented.
3. Can make decisions without getting emotionally involved.
4. Good at reconciling factions—is calming and adds stability.
5. Always looking for logical solutions.
6. Patient and empathetic.
7. Good listener.
8. Consistent and steady.

Checklist for Communicating

Most people are aware of and sensitive to the ways with which they prefer to be communicated. Many people find this section to be extremely accurate and important for enhanced interpersonal communication. This page provides other people with a list of things to DO when communicating with Aldrin. Read each statement and identify the 3 or 4 statements which are most important to him. We recommend highlighting the most important "DO's" and provide a listing to those who communicate with Aldrin most frequently.

Ways to Communicate

- ✔ 1. Have the facts in logical order.
- ✔ 2. Use expert testimonials.
- ✔ 3. Respect his quiet demeanor.
- ✔ 4. Patiently draw out personal goals and work with him to help him achieve those goals; listen and be responsive.
- ✔ 5. Provide guarantees that his decision will minimize risks; give assurance that provides him with benefits.
- ✔ 6. Give pros and cons to ideas.
- ✔ 7. Be prepared with the facts and figures.
- ✔ 8. Provide personal assurances and clear, specific solutions with maximum guarantees.
- ✔ 9. Keep at least three feet away from him.
- ✔ 10. Present your case softly, non-threateningly, with a sincere tone of voice.
- ✔ 11. Provide a friendly environment.

Continued

This section of the report is a list of things NOT to do while communicating with Aldrin. Review each statement with Aldrin and identify those methods of communication that result in frustration or reduced performance. By sharing this information, both parties can negotiate a communication system that is mutually agreeable.

Ways NOT to Communicate

1. Use high speed or intense demands.
2. Be redundant.
3. Keep deciding for him, less he'll lose initiative. Don't leave him without backup support.
4. Stick coldly or harshly to business; on the other hand, don't lose sight of goals by being too personal.
5. Be disorganized.
6. Offer assurance and guarantees you can't fulfill.
7. Use inappropriate buzz words.
8. Be abrupt and rapid.
9. Force him to respond quickly to your objectives. Don't say, "Here's how I see it."
10. Manipulate or push him into agreeing because he probably won't fight back.
11. Be domineering or demanding; don't threaten with a position of power.

Communication Tips

This section provides suggestions for methods which will improve Aldrin's communications with others. The tips include a brief description of typical people with whom he may interact. By adapting to the communication style desired by other people, Aldrin will become more effective in his communications with them. He may have to practice some flexibility in varying his communication style with others who may be different from himself. This flexibility and the ability to interpret the needs of others is the mark of a superior communicator.

Compliance

When communicating with a person who is dependent, neat, conservative, perfectionist, careful, and compliant:

- ✔ Prepare your "case" in advance.
- ✔ Stick to business.
- ✔ Be accurate and realistic.
- ⊘ Being giddy, casual, informal, or loud.
- ⊘ Pushing too hard or being unrealistic with deadlines.
- ⊘ Being disorganized or messy.

Dominance

When communicating with a person who is ambitious, forceful, decisive, strong-willed, independent, and goal-oriented:

- ✔ Be clear, specific, brief, and to the point.
- ✔ Stick to business.
- ✔ Be prepared with support material in a well-organized "package."
- ⊘ Talking about things that are not relevant to the issue.
- ⊘ Leaving loopholes or cloudy issues.
- ⊘ Appearing disorganized.

Steadiness

When communicating with a person who is patient, predictable, reliable, steady, relaxed, and modest:

- ✔ Begin with a personal comment—break the ice.
- ✔ Present your case softly, non-threateningly.
- ✔ Ask "how?" questions to draw their opinions.
- ⊘ Rushing headlong into business.
- ⊘ Being domineering or demanding.
- ⊘ Forcing them to respond quickly to your objectives.

Influence

When communicating with a person who is magnetic, enthusiastic, friendly, demonstrative, and political:

- ✔ Provide a warm and friendly environment.
- ✔ Don't deal with a lot of details (put them in writing).
- ✔ Ask "feeling" questions to draw their opinions or comments.
- ⊘ Being curt, cold, or tight-lipped.
- ⊘ Controlling the conversation.
- ⊘ Driving on facts and figures or alternatives and abstractions.

Perceptions

See Yourself As Others See You

A person's behavior and feelings may be quickly telegraphed to others. This section provides additional information on Aldrin's self-perception and how, under certain conditions, others may perceive his behavior. Understanding this section will empower Aldrin to project the image that will allow him to control the situation.

Aldrin usually sees himself as being:

- ✔ Considerate
- ✔ Thoughtful
- ✔ Good-natured
- ✔ Dependable
- ✔ Team Player
- ✔ Good Listener

Under moderate pressure, tension, stress, or fatigue, others may see him as being:

- ✔ Nondemonstrative
- ✔ Hesitant
- ✔ Unconcerned
- ✔ Inflexible

Under extreme pressure, stress, or fatigue, others may see him as being:

- ✔ Possessive
- ✔ Stubborn
- ✔ Detached
- ✔ Insensitive

The Absence of a Behavioral Factor

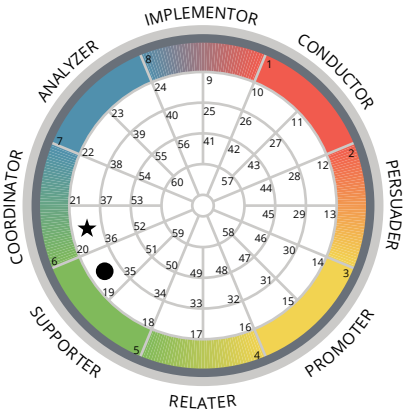

The absence of a behavioral factor may provide insight into situations or environments that may cause tension or stress. Based on research, we are able to identify situations that should be avoided or minimized in a person's day-to-day environment. By understanding the contribution of a low behavioral style, we are able to better articulate a person's talents and create environments where people can be more effective.

Situations and circumstances to avoid or aspects needed within the environment in order to minimize behavioral stress.

- Avoid working environments that see a realistic nature as purely pessimistic.
- Avoid situations where they are forced to trust without supporting data.
- Avoid groups where trust has not been previously established.

Understanding that the need to adapt is unavoidable at times. Below are tips for adapting to those with I above the energy line and/or tips for seeking environments that will be conducive to the low I.

- Not verbalizing feelings and perspectives may delay desired outcomes.
- Daily and repetitive team meetings will detract from productivity and add to stress.
- Understand when an analytical perspective is needed and valued.

Natural & Adapted Style

Aldrin's natural style of dealing with problems, people, pace of events, and procedures may not always fit what the environment needs. This section will provide valuable information related to stress and the pressure to adapt to the environment.

Problems & Challenges

Natural	Adapted
Aldrin is somewhat conservative in his approach to solving problems. He will accept challenges by being quite calculating in his response to the problem or challenge. Aldrin will be quite cooperative by nature and attempt to avoid confrontation, as he wants to be seen as a person who is "easy" to work with.	Aldrin sees no need to change his approach to solving problems or dealing with challenges in his present environment.

People & Contacts

Natural	Adapted
Aldrin is undemonstrative in his approach to influencing others and likes to let facts and figures stand for themselves. He feels persuasion needs to be objective and straightforward. His trust level is based on each interaction—the past is the past. He presents facts without embellishments.	Aldrin sees no need to change his approach to influencing others to his way of thinking. He sees his natural style to be what the environment is calling for.

Copyright © 1984-2026. TTI Success Insights LTD.

Natural & Adapted Style

Pace & Consistency

Natural	Adapted
Aldrin is comfortable in an environment in which there is a relaxed demeanor or one in which patience is looked at as a virtue. He prefers to complete one task before starting the next and prefers an environment that is predictable.	Aldrin sees his natural activity style to be just what the environment needs. What you see is what you get for activity level and consistency.

Procedures & Constraints

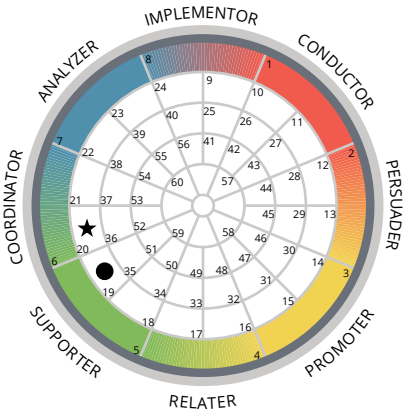

Natural	Adapted
Aldrin is somewhat open-minded, but aware and sensitive to the implications of not following the rules. He can display balanced judgment in reviewing procedures. Knowing he is doing things well is a key reinforcement for him.	Aldrin shows little discomfort when comparing his basic (natural) style to his response to the environment (adapted) style. The difference is not significant, and Aldrin sees little or no need to change his response to the environment.

Copyright © 1984-2026. TTI Success Insights LTD.

Adapted Style

Aldrin sees his present work environment requiring him to exhibit the behavior listed on this page. If the following statements DO NOT sound job related, explore the reasons why he is adapting this behavior.

- ✔ 1. Calculation of risks before taking action.
- ✔ 2. Task focus over people focus.
- ✔ 3. Precise, analytical approach to work tasks.
- ✔ 4. Precedence of quality over efficiency.
- ✔ 5. Adherence to established guidelines and procedures.
- ✔ 6. A traditional, quality-oriented work model to follow.
- ✔ 7. Exhibiting patience and good listening skills.
- ✔ 8. Critical appraisal of data.
- ✔ 9. Freedom from confrontation.
- ✔ 10. Consistency of task performance.
- ✔ 11. Sensitivity to existing rules and regulations.
- ✔ 12. Limited or prepared changes in routine.

Time Wasters

This section of your report is designed to identify time wasters that may impact your overall time use effectiveness. Possible causes and solutions will serve as a basis for creating an effective plan for maximizing your use of TIME and increasing your PERFORMANCE.

Failure To Clarify Precise Responsibilities With Manager

The failure to clarify precise responsibilities with your manager assumes that you have a full understanding of his/her expectations. It infers that your manager understands your job and concurs with your assessment of requirements.

Possible Causes:

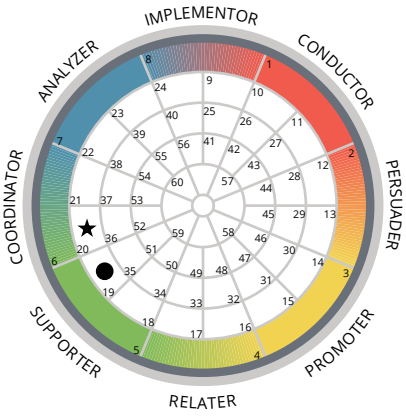

1. Unsure of how you will be perceived
2. Don't want to overstep authority
3. Want to be a team player
4. Want to help everyone so you don't object to the manager when requests are being made that are not your responsibility

Possible Solutions:

1. Have informal conversations with the manager about his/her expectations
2. Share with manager your expectations
3. Clarify with peers and other managers your duties and responsibilities
4. Read and discuss articles on "management by objectives"

Resisting Change

Resisting change is the process of consciously or subconsciously not participating in the change process. Measures of resistance may be active or passive, not doing things the new way, or making excuses for not having tasks accomplished.

Possible Causes:

1. Need a high degree of security
2. Like to maintain the status quo
3. Routine/procedures have worked in the past
4. One specific aspect of a proposed change violates sense of values

Copyright © 1984-2026. TTI Success Insights LTD.

Time Wasters

Continued

5. A specific change is not seen as contributing to successful accomplishments

Possible Solutions:

1. Acknowledge that change is a natural part of any job
2. Develop the habit of writing down all of the pros and cons of a specific change
3. Evaluate each objection to a change
4. If there is one specific objection that is overriding the ability to change, share the specific concern with those involved and seek advice or input from others

Postpone The Unpleasant

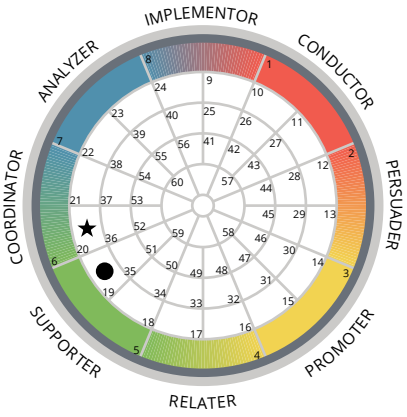

Postponing the unpleasant is similar to procrastinating but is usually a continual reprioritizing of daily tasks. It is often a way to delay something that is not enjoyable.

Possible Causes:

1. Like low-conflict environments and relationships
2. Want to feel the success of accomplishment so the simple tasks are done first

Possible Solutions:

1. Change your routine and, for one week, do the unpleasant tasks first
2. See the accomplishment of unpleasant tasks as an equal or even greater achievement of success
3. Reward yourself for every unpleasant task that you complete without postponing
4. Confront those people who are causing you discomfort and discuss the problems

Time Wasters

Continued

Failure To Anticipate

Failure to anticipate is the lack of focusing on possible outcomes or requirements.

Possible Causes:

1. Expect only the best to happen
2. Expect everyone else to do their best
3. Trust the system to run well
4. Focus on the here and now rather than the future
5. Resist change

Possible Solutions:

1. Set aside a specific amount of time each day to consider outcome possibilities
2. Talk with others who may have prior experience with a specific task or person

Habits

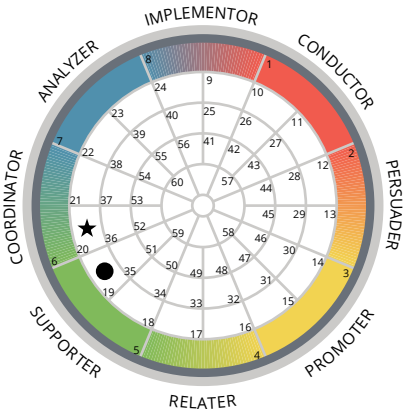

A habit is a specific thought, behavior or way of doing something that was acquired by repetition or by reinforcement from self and/or others.

Possible Causes:

1. Have established routines that are comfortable
2. Routine creates a feeling of security
3. Resist change for change's sake
4. Have been praised repeatedly for a specific behavior

Possible Solutions:

1. Evaluate habits and decide which contribute to your accomplishments and which deter you from success
2. Try new ways of performing a certain task
3. Ask others for recommendations on different approaches
4. Consciously practice changing your routine

Time Wasters

Failure To Share Information

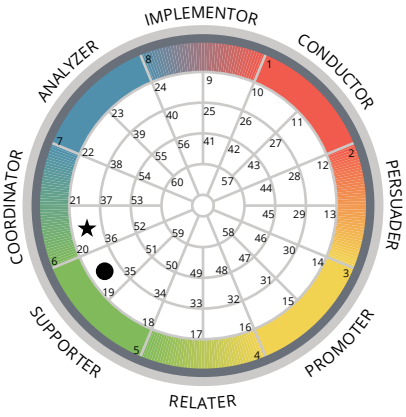

The failure to share information is the inability or unwillingness to discuss with others.

Possible Causes:

1. Don't think others want to know the information
2. Unclear of the way the information will be used/received
3. Wait until asked before sharing information

Possible Solutions:

1. Let others know that they need to ask for information
2. Share with those whose opinions you trust

Areas for Improvement

In this area is a listing of possible limitations without regard to a specific job. Review with Aldrin and cross out those limitations that do not apply. Highlight 1 to 3 limitations that are hindering his performance and develop an action plan to eliminate or reduce this hindrance.

Aldrin has a tendency to:

1. Take criticism of his work as a personal affront.
2. Not take action against those who challenge or break the rules or guidelines.
3. Have difficulty establishing priorities. He has a tendency to make all things a number one priority—may have trouble meeting deadlines.
4. Avoid accountability by overstating the complexity of the situation.
5. Dislike change if he feels the change is unwarranted.
6. Hold a grudge if his personal beliefs are attacked.
7. Become resistive and indecisive when forced to act quickly. Without proper information, he will resist in a passive-aggressive manner.

The TTI Success Insights® Wheel

The TTI Success Insights® Wheel is a powerful tool first popularized in Europe. In addition to the text you have received about your behavioral style, the Wheel adds a visual representation that allows you to:

- View your natural behavioral style (circle).
- View your adapted behavioral style (star).
- Note the degree to which you are adapting your behavior.

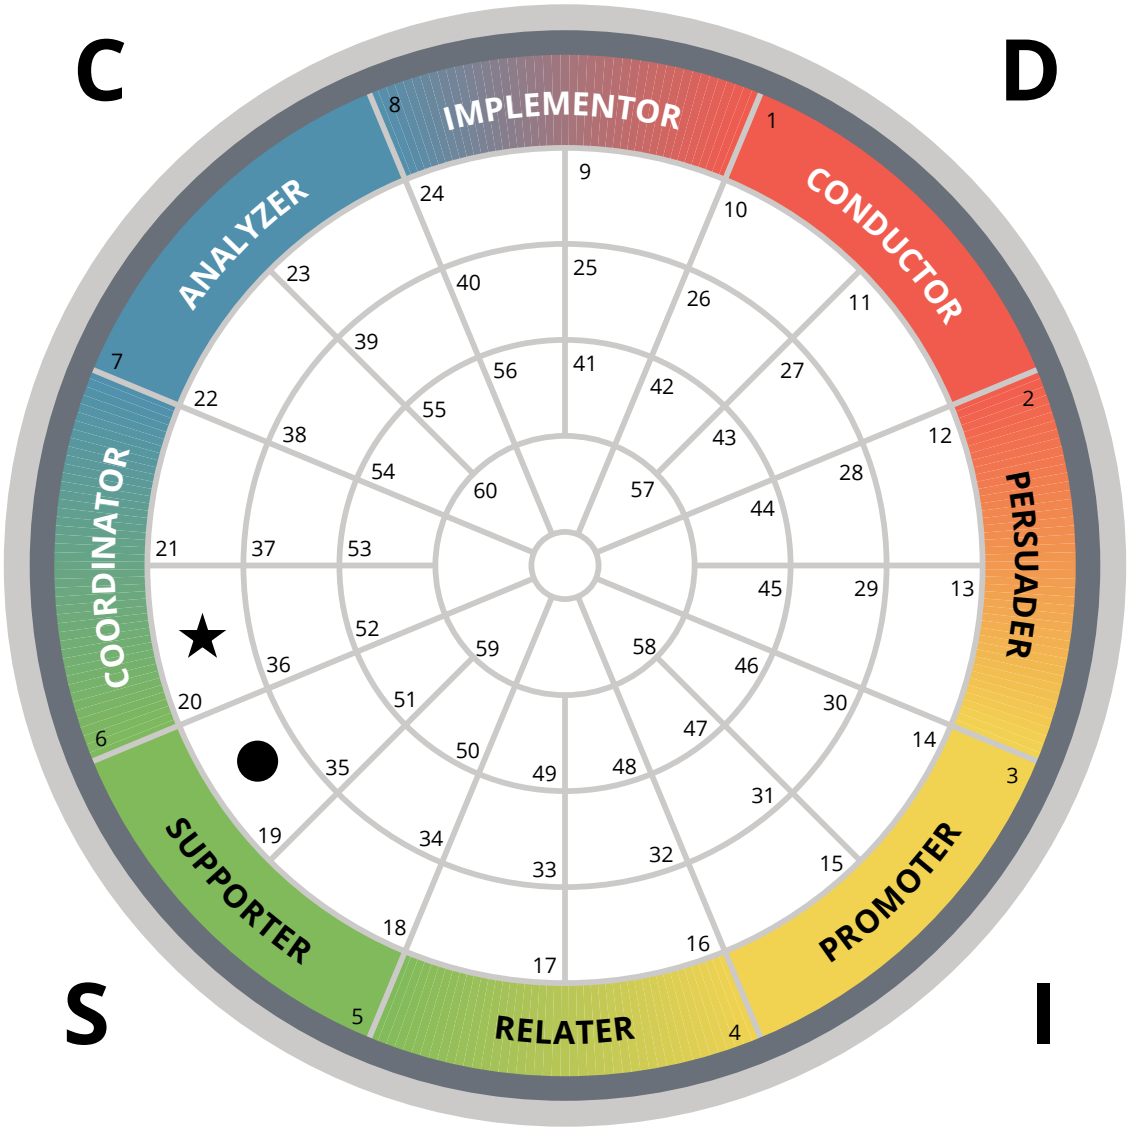

Notice on the next page that your Natural style (circle) and your Adapted style (star) are plotted on the Wheel. If they are plotted in different boxes, then you are adapting your behavior. The further the two plotting points are from each other, the more you are adapting your behavior.

If you are part of a group or team who also took the behavioral assessment, it would be advantageous to get together, using each person's Wheel, and make a master Wheel that contains each person's Natural and Adapted style. This allows you to quickly see where conflict can occur. You will also be able to identify where communication, understanding, and appreciation can be increased.

Introduction

Motivators

Knowledge of an individual's motivators help to tell us WHY they do things. A review of an individual's experiences, references, education, and training help to tell us WHAT they can do. Behavioral assessments help to tell us HOW a person behaves and performs in the work environment. The Personal Motivators & Engagement report measures the relative prominence of six basic interests or motivators (a way of valuing life): Theoretical, Utilitarian, Aesthetic, Social, Individualistic, and Traditional.

Motivators help to initiate one's behavior and are sometimes called the hidden motivators because they are not always readily observed. It is the purpose of this report to help illuminate and amplify some of those motivating factors and to build on the strengths that each person brings to the work environment.

Based on your choices, this report ranks your relative passion for each of the six motivators. Your top two and sometimes three motivators cause you to move into action. You will feel positive when talking, listening or doing activities that satisfy your top motivators.

The feedback you will receive in this section will reflect one of three intensity levels for each of the six motivators.

- Strong - positive feelings that you need to satisfy either on or off the job.
- Situational - where your feelings will range from positive to indifferent based on other priorities in your life at the time. These motivators tend to become more important as your top motivators are satisfied.
- Indifferent - your feelings will be indifferent when related to your 5th or 6th motivator.

Your Personal Motivators Ranking

1st	Theoretical	Strong
2nd	Social	Strong
3rd	Traditional	Situational
4th	Aesthetic	Situational
5th	Utilitarian	Indifferent
6th	Individualistic	Indifferent

Copyright © 1990-2026. TTI Success Insights LTD.

Theoretical

The primary drive with this motivator is the discovery of TRUTH. In pursuit of this drive, an individual takes a "cognitive" attitude. Such an individual is nonjudgmental regarding the beauty or utility of objects and seeks only to observe and to reason. Since the interests of the theoretical person are empirical, critical and rational, the person appears to be an intellectual. The chief aim in life is to order and systematize knowledge: knowledge for the sake of knowledge.

1. Aldrin has the potential to become an expert in his chosen field.
2. Aldrin is very good at integrating past knowledge to solve present problems.
3. He may have difficulty putting down a good book.
4. Aldrin is comfortable around people who share his interest for knowledge and especially those people with similar convictions.
5. He will usually have the data to support his convictions.
6. A comfortable job for Aldrin is one that challenges his knowledge.

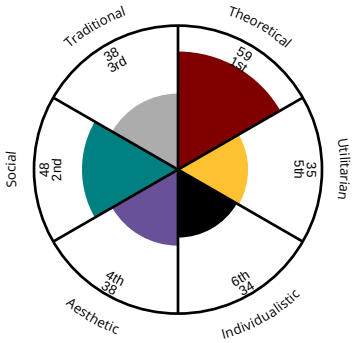

Copyright © 1990-2026. TTI Success Insights LTD.

Social

Those who score very high for this motivator have an inherent love of people. The social person prizes other people and is, therefore, kind, sympathetic and unselfish. They are likely to find the Theoretical, Utilitarian and Aesthetic attitudes cold and inhuman. Compared to the Individualistic motivator, the Social person regards helping others as the only suitable form for human relationships. Research indicates that in its purest form, the Social interest is selfless.

1. Helping the homeless may be one of his concerns.
2. Aldrin will be generous with time, research and information on social problems.
3. He is generous with his time, talent and resources for those in need.
4. Aldrin is patient and sensitive to others.
5. He believes charities should be supported.
6. Saying "no" is difficult when others need his time or talent.
7. He will have a keen interest in improving society.

Traditional

The highest interest for this motivator may be called "unity," "order," or "tradition." Individuals with high scores for this motivator seek a system for living. This system can be found in such things as conservatism or any authority that has defined rules, regulations and principles for living.

1. Aldrin at times will evaluate others based on his rules for living.
2. Aldrin lets his conscience be his guide.
3. He will have strong beliefs within a system that he feels most comfortable with, and he will not be as strong in his beliefs or approach if he lacks that interest level.
4. Aldrin needs to be able to pick and choose the traditions and set of beliefs to which he will adhere.

Aesthetic

A higher Aesthetic score indicates a relative interest in "form and harmony." Each experience is judged from the standpoint of grace, symmetry or fitness. Life may be regarded as a procession of events, and each is enjoyed for its own sake. A high score here does not necessarily mean that the incumbent has talents in creative artistry. It indicates a primary interest in the artistic episodes of life.

1. Aldrin may desire fine things for his spouse or family members.
2. At times Aldrin will look for the beauty in all things.
3. There could be a specific area that is of great interest to him. For instance, he may be appreciative of the natural beauty of mountains and streams, but may not be overly impressed by the works of Picasso or Rembrandt.
4. The need for the appreciation of beauty is determined on an individual basis and is not generalized in terms of the total world around him.

Utilitarian

The Utilitarian score shows a characteristic interest in money and what is useful. This means that an individual wants to have the security that money brings not only for themselves but for their present and future family. This motivator includes the practical affairs of the business world — the production, marketing and consumption of goods, the use of credit and the accumulation of tangible wealth. This type of individual is thoroughly practical and conforms well to the stereotype of the average business person. A person with a high score is likely to have a high need to surpass others in wealth.

1. Aldrin will seek a comfort level in his standard of living and try to maintain that level.
2. Overemphasizing the value of money will bore Aldrin and turn him off.
3. Aldrin will use his money to satisfy his true motivation.
4. He is motivated by internal beliefs and does not feel compelled to impress others with material things.
5. Money and material possessions are not a high priority for Aldrin.
6. Aldrin will not use money as a scorecard to impress others.
7. Financial security is not a necessity, but a long-term goal.
8. Aldrin will accept his financial situation and not strive to change it.
9. There is not a tremendous need for Aldrin to have great sums of money.
10. Aldrin will not be swayed or motivated by what he feels are excessive material goals.

Individualistic

The primary interest for this motivator is POWER, not necessarily politics. Research studies indicate that leaders in most fields have a high power drive. Since competition and struggle play a large part in all areas of life, many philosophers have seen power as the most universal and most fundamental of motives. There are, however, certain personalities in whom the desire for direct expression of this motive is uppermost; who wish, above all, for personal power, influence and renown.

1. As long as Aldrin's belief systems are not threatened, he will allow others to set the tone and direction of his work.
2. He will not attempt to overpower others' points of view or change their thinking.
3. Aldrin's passion in life will be found in one or two of the other dimensions discussed in this report.
4. Stability is a primary concern. Patience and fortitude will win in the long run.
5. Being in total control of a situation is not a primary motivating factor.
6. Aldrin will be less concerned about his ego than others may be.
7. Aldrin feels that struggles should be the burden of the team, not just the individuals.

NAVIGATING SITUATIONS OUTSIDE OF YOUR COMFORT ZONE

The information on this page will highlight areas in which you may struggle relating to based on your lowest motivator. The information will teach you how to manage your way through discussions focusing on your number six motivator.

Tips for Communicating with "High Individualistic" utilizing your Theoretical.

As you read through the communication tips, think about the following questions:

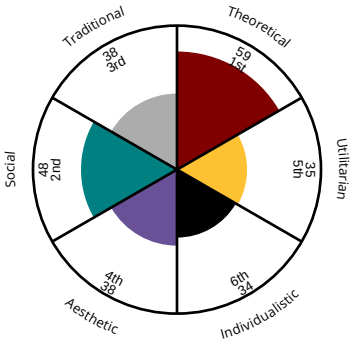

1. How does the mindset of a high Individualistic contribute to today's workforce?
2. How do Individualistics contribute to the world, your professional life, and your personal life?

A high Individualistic wants not only to control his own destiny, but the destiny of others.

- Feed the high Individualistic with information and data. Educate them on how information is power and how the information can provide them with more control.
- Be sure to tailor the presentation of information in a way that can be understood by the high Individualistic from a "What's in it for me?" perspective.

When a high Individualistic feels strongly about a situation, he may apply the "All is fair in love and war" philosophy.

- In situations where the Individualistic is passionate, combat against the "ends justify the means" mentality with data and information presented in a way to position him as in control and taking the lead.
- Be cautious when the Individualistic is only concentrated on the data that supports his goals. Present data in a way that the Individualistic can receive recognition by presenting the findings.

NAVIGATING SITUATIONS OUTSIDE OF YOUR COMFORT ZONE

Controlling the situation is important to a high Individualistic but he also wants to have the public recognition.

- Utilize the possessed data to help the high Individualistic not only control the conversation through information but to also be recognized as the person who knows how to solve the problem.
- The desire to have control of information and knowledge is similar to the pure desire for control. However, it does not necessarily mean they have the knowledge to do so. When in agreement, the information can be leveraged to move things in a positive direction.

A high Individualistic will have strong feelings about the legacy he is striving to create and eventually will leave behind.

- Approach the conversation and data presentation with information that supports the legacy the Individualistic is trying to create.
- Demonstrate the connection between the information and how it can impact the result the Individualistic wants to achieve.

Motivators - Norms & Comparisons

For years you have heard statements like, "Different strokes for different folks," "to each his own," and "people do things for their own reasons, not yours." When you are surrounded by people who share similar motivators, you will fit in with the group and be energized. However, when surrounded by people whose motivators are significantly different from yours, you may be perceived as out of the mainstream. These differences can induce stress or conflict. When confronted with this type of situation you can:

- Change the situation.
- Change your perception of the situation.
- Leave the situation.
- Cope with the situation.

This section reveals areas where your motivators may be outside the mainstream and could lead to conflict. The further away you are from the mainstream on the high side, the more people will notice your passion about that motivator. The further away from the mainstream on the low side, the more people will view you as indifferent and possibly negative about that motivator. The shaded area for each motivator represents 68 percent of the population or scores that fall within one standard deviation above or below the national mean.

Introduction

Integrating Behaviors & Motivators

The ultimate power behind increasing job satisfaction and performance comes from the blending of your behaviors and motivators. Individually, each is powerful enough to modify your actions, but the synergy of blending the two moves you to a whole new level.

In this section you will find:

- Potential Behavioral and Motivational Strengths
- Potential Behavioral and Motivational Conflict
- Ideal Environment
- Keys to Motivating
- Keys to Managing

Potential Behavioral & Motivational Conflict

This section describes the potential areas of conflict between Aldrin's behavioral style and his top two motivators. Identify two to three potential conflicts that need to be minimized in order to enhance on-the-job performance.

1. May not pursue knowledge if it jeopardizes his security.
2. May withhold the sharing of knowledge to meet his security needs.
3. May not always stand up for oneself or others.
4. May have difficulty correcting others as he wants to help but not offend.
5. Can be defensive when hard facts are questioned.
6. May appear overly data- or theory-focused.
7. May micromanage friends or family and, in turn, unintentionally alienate others.
8. Sets unwanted rules for others, but does so for their own good.

Ideal Environment

This section identifies the ideal work environment based on Aldrin's basic style and top two motivators. People with limited flexibility will find themselves uncomfortable working in any job not described in this section. People with flexibility use intelligence to modify their behavior and can be comfortable in many environments. Use this section to identify specific duties and responsibilities that Aldrin enjoys and also those that create frustration.

1. Prefers technical work, specializing in one area.
2. Familiar work environment with a predictable pattern.
3. Needs personal attention from his manager and compliments for each assignment well done.
4. An environment where being prepared for meetings is rewarded.
5. Information and time to make decisions.
6. Time necessary to gather enough information in order to move forward.
7. Ability to help others within the organizational framework.
8. Provide functional and useful ways to help others achieve and win.
9. Have resources and tools in proper order for efficient access to help others.

Keys To Motivating

This section of the report was produced by analyzing Aldrin's wants. People are motivated by the things they want; thus wants that are satisfied no longer motivate. Review each statement produced in this section with Aldrin and highlight those that are present "wants."

Aldrin wants:

1. Reassurance he is doing the job right.
2. A predictable work environment.
3. Time to perform up to his high standards.
4. Background and detailed information on processes and procedures in order to ensure they are correct.
5. Information on how to do things right, for fear of making a mistake.
6. To support others through the gathering and delivery of information.
7. Processes and procedures for maintaining compliance while giving back to society.
8. Accountability for the desired humanitarian outcomes.
9. The information and facts necessary to help others achieve their goals.

Keys To Managing

In this section are some needs which must be met in order for Aldrin to perform at an optimum level. Some needs can be met by himself, while management must provide for others. It is difficult for a person to enter a motivational environment when that person's basic management needs have not been fulfilled. Review the list with Aldrin and identify 3 or 4 statements that are most important to him. This allows Aldrin to participate in forming his own personal management plan.

Aldrin needs:

1. Tangible work.
2. A manager who delegates in detail.
3. To set professional and family goals.
4. To understand the appropriate amount of detail in order to move ideas forward.
5. Appropriate time to research and understand new information.
6. Support in being seen as an expert within the organization.
7. To utilize his drive to help others in negotiations on the job.
8. To be positioned as the champion of procedures, helping others understand them.
9. To be involved in determining how new procedures may affect people.
